State Should Have United Support In 'Big Picture' Roads Program

itself in the scheduling of funds to finance the federal - state highway building pro-

Each section of the Commonwealth is battling to obtain priority for its major pet project, and the result is a state of confusion that promises to lead to dissatisfaction all the way

The Northern Tier is seeking a new Route 6, the central counties have their sights set on winning approval for the Keystone Shortway between Stroudsburg and Sharon, and southern counties, now served by the Pennsylvania Turnpike and a network of free roads, are disturbed because present plans supposedly ignore them while favoring such highways as Route 22, which carries traffic west from Easton and Al-

Philadelphia had joined Route 6 sources in opposing the Shortway as a means of protecting its own interests. But with the Schuylkill Expressway now two-thirds completed, the Delaware Expressway approved as part of the national system of interstate highways and its present access to the turnpike. Philadelphia is now assured 22 major highway approaches.

This is eight more than Pittsburgh will have-and Pittsburgh has gone on record in active support of the Shortway. Why then, we ask, should Philadelphia cling to its selfish tactics and insist that all its needs be met before consideration is given to other parts of the state?

It is obvious that not all of the highways sought can be built at the outset of the federal program. They must, of necessity, be spread over the next 15 or 20 years, or whatever period it will take to complete the bulk of the work.

Instead of every section pressuring for first priority in the allocation of funds, best results can be achieved only if the Pennsylvania Department of Highways is allowed to proceed in an orderly fashion in setting up a longrange program to benefit all of the

Selfish action or other types of interference will merely delay the progress and cannot be tolerated if Pennsylvania is to Pennsylvania is a house divided against keep pace with the rest of the federal highway program. Rather, the only sensible approach is a unified, coordinated action by the interests in every section of the state.

The Department of Highways must have this support if it is to achieve one of its basic goals - freeing all toll roads of bonded indebtedness simultaneously with building of the Shortway.

Records show that 85 million dollars in turnpike bonds are not paid on the stretch between Middlesex (Carlisle) and Valley Forge. There are 76 millions unpaid from Irwin to Gateway-making 161 millions which will be paid from tolls by 1967.

In addition, there are 65 millions on the Valley Forge to Delaware River extension and 233 millions on the Philadelphia to Scranton extension. These total 298 millions, of which 98 millions will be paid by 1971, at which time the Shortway is expected to be completed.

The "Big Picture" approach, as the Highway Department refers to its longrange program for Pennsylvania, requires coordination to figure out payment of the remaining 200 millions of toll road bonds in time for opening of the Shortway.

The experts are virtually unanimous in figuring on a tremendous increase in the volume of traffic by 1971. They differ only slightly in the expected amount of the increase. Assuming they will be proved correct, all highways that can be built will be needed to handle the heavy travel and fears that the Shortway will lead directly to a reduction in turnpike travel disappear into the thin air.

It is true that turnpikes are losing much of their once-popular public acceptance, even though incomes are sufficient to pay off their bonds. The crying need for the future, therefore, will be the freeways such as the Shortway.

In the meantime, all sections of Pennsylvania would do well to unite behind the Highway Department to speed liquidation of the turnpike's bonded indebtedness and then we can proceed with the construction of our freeways.

When that happens, the state will be well along its plotted path of providing the "greatest number of miles of road" it can with the money available.

— for an individual, a hotel syndicate or an institution to acquire one of the finest resort spots in the country.

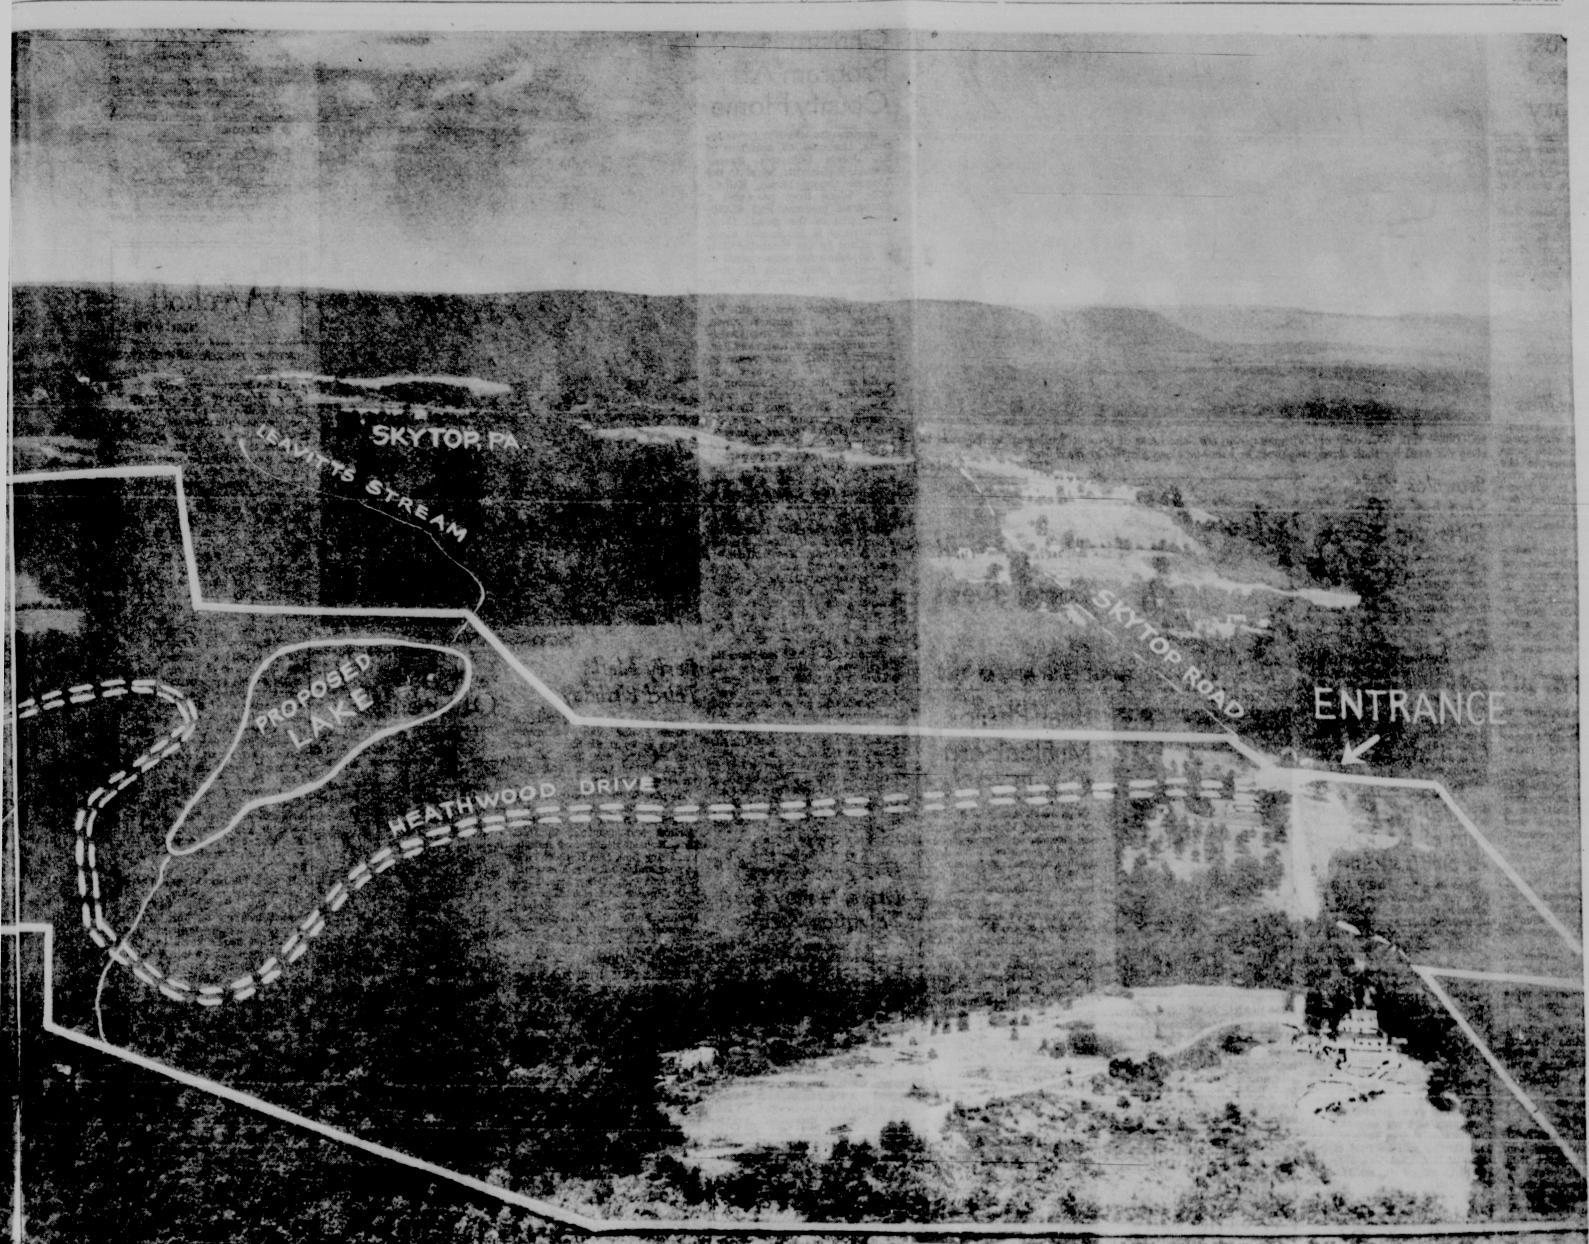

This contiguous 260 acre property, that is illustrated in the above aerial photograph, is now being offered for sale. This property comprising of ten separate parcels of land to make this total assemblage of acreage possible in the most desirable area in the Pocono Mountains Vacationland, in the State of Pennsylvania.

This 260 acre tract is a natural site for a new modern multi-million dollar resort hotel. The acreage is situated between two of the most exclusive multi-million dollar hotels in the east. A portion of this acreage was originally an airport located high on top of a mountain. The woods were cleared and grass runways were constructed at great expense. From this high vantage point a person can see the most breathtaking view of beautiful rolling mountains and woodlands. Thousands upon thousands of rhododendron plants beneath giant hemlock and pine trees make it a natural paradise unmarred by man. A natural lake site exists on the Levis Branch Stream which runs through the entire tract of land. The finest trout fishing in the country can be enjoyed here. A new modern hotel constructed on this site and surrounded by an 18 hole golf course, tennis courts, swimming pool, etc. would be, no doubt, one of the finest resort hotels in the country.

The beauty and identity of the Pocono Mountain region as one of the finest resort areas in the country has not been lost. Actually, it is still undiscovered by most of the vacationists in the metropolitan areas. The businessmen in this area feel that it is time that a new modern resort hotel should be constructed in the heart of the Pocono Mountains. Due to the increased convention business and honeymoons in off seasons, more and more hotels are staying open throughout the year.

The beautiful Poconos are only ninety miles from metropolitan New York City and Philadelphia, wherein lies a potential market of thirty million vacationits. Excellent train, bus and plane service is available to this resort region. The new Pocono Interchange now under construction which will soon connect with the Northeast extension of the Pennsylvania Turnpike will give still more prominence to this area.

LETTER TO YOUNG SHOPPERS Hi, Kids,

Along about now, you're probably borrowing your allowance for several weeks in advance . . or shaking quarters out of your piggy banks . . . or just plain hinting to anyone who will listen that you still have your Christ-mas shopping to do. Once you get that money, you're going to be confused about what to do with it. You're going to wonder what you can buy to please Mother, Dad, Aunt Nellie and the rest, for maybe 1.00 each or even less. This being so, I'd like to tell you about some of the exciting items you'll find in almost every department at Wyckoff's . . . and I'd like you to feel that every one of our sales people, and our store shopper, Mrs. Bartholomew, will be most happy to help you,

Let's consider Mother. Does she like jewelry? Some mothers do . . . some do not . . . and the secret of giving the perfect gift, is in buying what the person needs and will use. We have some very nice jewelry for 1.00 . . . but remember, there is a tax of 13c on dollar jewelry and cosmetic items, so you'll actually be spending 1.13. Does your mother like fancy jewelry - with bright colors and gleaming stones? Or does she prefer plain gold or silver? If you know, and tell the saleslady, she'll find it much easier to buy something Mother will appreciate.

If your Mother likes to fix up the house, and seems happiest Camp 289 PO of A, 8 p.m., at when she has new things Odd Fellows Hall, with family around her, go to Mrs. Walters in our domestic department on Ever-Welcome Class, Strouds- the second floor. Even Dad, if he's the type who's always preparing barbecues for your guests in the summer time, might like the special barbecue lowel. Then there is the S Dry kitchen terry towel at 89c and, at 98c, a Callaway kitchen terry with pretty black trivet design on its border. Dish cloths are 19c each, plain striped dish towels, 59c, and place mats are 59c to 1.00, Mrs. Walters also has shown me a prettily colored nylon scouring cloth in heavy mesh that is only 45c. It is perfect for dishes, pots, and pans, dries quickly without scouring, and is very popular with many of our customers. Your Mother might be nappy to know about it, if she doesn't already.

Back in floor covering, just a few steps away from domestics, you'll find a perfect 1.00 gift for Dad if he drives. It's a longhandled snow chaser that will clean his windshield when the weather's bad. And if you haven't a shower at home, what do you bet Dad wouldn't love a Bath Spray, priced at 1.19! A pretty plastic chair set and back for an odd kitchen chair is just 98c, and Mother might welcome this. Then, stop in our_millinery department, and see the cute Belgian hare ear muffs for sister at 89c. These are cute and gay , and fluffy too! If you've a Brownie, Girl or Boy Scout on your list, visit these departments, also on Wyckoff's second floor, for lots of ideas. And don't forget our Toyland . . . there you'll find games that the entire family can share, as well as hundreds of individual items for special people.

In this happiest of holiday seasons...

Don't Break Up The Family Circle

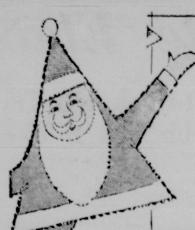

It's a time for joy, for affection, for being together with loved ones. It's that happiest time of year . . . the holiday season. Because this is so very much a "family time," many of us will be traveling to holiday reunions. If your travel plans include driving, whether across the state or just around the block, always drive with extreme care. Observe all the laws of highway safety, as well as those of courtesy. Don't let the needless tragedy of automobile accidents break up anyone's family circle this holiday season.
